

HAMISH JOHNSTON

I'm an interdisciplinary creative based in London with interests spanning from creative problem solving, through to design, film and photography.

As a graduate from Goldsmiths University in BA Design, I have a deep understanding in design thinking and how the subject can be applied in larger contexts to influence and engage others.

I'm a natural people person, able to work both by myself and within teams. My practice is rooted around a human centred approach, always putting the user first and designing outwardly from a combination of first and second hand research.

Due to my varied work experience over the years, I am flexible, punctual and able to successfully manage both my own time and others to achieve the best final outcome.

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Peckham Levels (Current)

Manager | September 2019 - Present

In my current role, I oversee and ensure smooth operational running of the creative venue in South London. The role requires creative problem solving and strong leadership skills. I also work closely with our marketing and design team on a variety of placemaking and wayfinding strategies to increase footfall.

Fresh Eyes

Co-founder | March 2019

Fresh Eyes is a design collective established with two peers whilst at university. Together we worked on a range of creative concepts and client based work. Some client work includes working on gamifying a sustainable energy company to make the data more accessible for the clients who use the company's service.

To The Power of Us -

Workshop Lead | June 2019

For one day, I ran an ideation workshop with a group of industry professionals on how to engage the 'To The Power Of Us' - a platform for social change with the target audience of university students within a three month timeframe.

Future Strategy Club

Junior Strategist | September 2018 - January 2019

Working in innovation and ideation around decentralising a local waste system in Peckham.

CMC Space X Goodsted

Project Coordinator (March - June 2018)

Working with social impact platform Goodsted & a group of students in London, I helped design, coordinate and run a series of 2 week workshops involving industry professionals and students to upcycle an old shipping crate and other waste materials to create a modular market stall unit.

Something & Son

Junior Creative (July - September 2018)

During my three month internship, I worked across three projects including an exhibition on the front lawns of the Tate Britain & the design and build of a new hair & beauty salon in Peckham.

Nike: London on Air

Workshop Trainee (March 2017)

Designing an interactive GIF for Instagram with Nike in a one off workshop to celebrate the release of the VaporMax for Air Max Day.
